Course Description

Designed for STEM students, this course systematically cultivates career planning capabilities. Beginning with self-assessment, students develop core competencies in time management, leadership, and teamwork through occupational exploration, goal-setting exercises, and decision-making training – enhanced by field visits, alumni panels, and workplace simulations. The curriculum focuses on guiding school-to-workplace transition, strengthening career adaptability, and targeted development of innovation literacy. Integrating theoretical instruction with hands-on practice, it empowers personalized career exploration and planning.
