Course Description

This course provides comprehensive knowledge of public policies found in the European Union, a political system that has increasingly taken on responsibility in key policy areas. After briefly reviewing the EU's institutional structure, it analyzes key economic policies of the EU, including the single market, economic and monetary union and competition policy. It then examines the fascinating aspects of merger and acquisition control and state aid. It also covers other significant policies, including agriculture, social, freedom, security and justice, as well as the external policies of the EU.
