Course Description

This course for international students covers Korean language and culture based on multi-media content. In this course, through various forms of content such as videos, visual materials, and text materials, students acquire media literacy suitable for the changing university environment, and furthermore, by understanding Korean culture and their own culture from an intercultural perspective, they cultivate a multicultural perspective and the literacy of being a global citizen. In addition, in the process of understanding multi-media content in Korean, students develop strategic Korean comprehension and expression skills. In addition, by carrying out cooperative activities and tasks, they develop collaboration and communication skills.

Topics include Korean culture through food, music, performance, the city, stories, and play. It is recommended that students take Intermediate Korean before enrolling in this course.
