Course Description

This course, covering financial accounting, management accounting, and investment appraisal topics, enables students to understand and apply the basic techniques of accounting and investment appraisal that would serve them well in decision-making roles in their careers ahead. The first part (Financial Accounting) provides an introduction to the preparation and analysis of financial statements and evaluation of the financial well-being of a business. The second part (Management Accounting and Investment Appraisal) provides an introduction to the production and uses of financial information for the internal management of a business. Students learn how to apply and comment on a range of techniques for product costing and investment appraisal.
