Course Description

This course covers the functioning and development of the European Union from a legal perspective. We examine the forces that drive European integration and explore the relationship of law to integration. The course surveys EU institutions, doctrines, laws and politics with a particular emphasis on the design of rules and contemporary events and focuses on the dynamics behind a legally driven process of regional integration.

Thematically, we consider, confront, and discuss the institutional set up of the EU (constitutional design, legal and political integration, separation of powers and the rule of law), the main doctrines of EU law, fundamental freedoms in EU, citizenship and political rights, competition law, questions of democratic legitimacy, EU enlargement and foreign policy, capital markets integration and monetary affairs.
