Course Description

This course provides students with a foundational understanding of globalization, focusing on its challenges and opportunities in the context of China's rise. The course is structured in three parts: Theoretical Foundations: The course begins by exploring classic political economy theories of globalization; Geopolitical Challenges: The course then examines how geopolitics and China's rise challenge and reshape these traditional frameworks; Applied Analysis: Finally, students apply these analytical tools to real-world topics, including industrial policies, foreign direct investment (FDI), economic sanctions, and the green transition.
