Course Description

The course examines the role of tutorial guidance and student support in primary education within an inclusive educational framework. Students explore the theoretical foundations and principles of tutorial action, emphasizing collaboration among schools, families, and the broader community. Topics include the organization and planning of tutorial programs, the responsibilities of the classroom tutor, personalized guidance for students aged 6-12, psychosocial and life-skills development, classroom climate, group cohesion, coeducation, and school coexistence. The course also addresses family diversity, communication and support strategies for families, and approaches to fostering active family participation and collaboration in the educational process.
