Course Description

This introductory course in Corporate Finance provides a systematic foundation for understanding how firms make financial decisions in modern capital markets. The course examines how corporations evaluate investment opportunities, raise capital, and manage risk to maximize firm value. Students will study core concepts such as the time value of money, interest rates, bond and stock valuation, investment decision rules, and the fundamentals of capital budgeting. The course also reviews essential accounting principles to ensure students can interpret financial statements and link accounting information to financial decisions.
