Course Description

This course is part of the Laurea Magistrale degree program and is intended for advanced level students. Enrollment is by permission of the instructor. In this course, students acquire deep knowledge of British cultural, political, philosophical, socio-economic history. They develop high ability to elaborate on texts and their cultural contexts, favoring critical thought. The course analyzes diverse forms of British Orientalism(s) in literature, visual art, and cultural theories, with specific reference to late 19th century and 20th century. Lessons investigate Orientalism as part of the cultural history of England, connected to colonialism and imperialism, but also to (albeit ambiguous) processes of intercultural exchanges. The course takes into consideration diverse literary genres where the notions of cultural difference and diversity, racism, and sexism intertwine with issues connected to gender, 'race', social positioning, and identity. It is introduced by lessons on cultural, postcolonial and intercultural studies.
