Course Description

This course is part of the Laurea Magistrale degree program and is intended for advanced level students. Enrollment is by permission of the instructor. By the end of the seminar the student is able to read and discuss scientific essays in comparative politics and history and is able to interact appropriately in a seminar situation. The Seminar consists of participation in a series of lectures given in English by the lecturer and visiting professors on the main topics of European history, politics, and culture in the 20th and 21st centuries. The Seminar introduces students to international research. By the end of the workshop, students will have improved their ability to discuss research topics, to explore the topics studied in depth using international literature as well as to conduct small comparative literature searches and to translate this knowledge into a short paper written using word processing systems. Part of the lectures are given by historians and political scientists mainly coming from foreign universities such as university of Trier, Sciences Po Lyon, Berlin Humboldt, Potsdam, and Dresden. The lecturer coordinating the seminar explains to the students how to write the paper according to a historical perspective.
