Course Description

In this seminar, students produce a program marking the 100th anniversary of the death of the poet Rainer Maria Rilke, which is broadcasted as part of the “Buchfunken” series on Uniradio. Working in pairs or individually, participants create their own approximately 5-minute segment on a topic related to Rilke. No prior knowledge of audio production is required; it is taught during the seminar. In the first part of the seminar, students explore the Rilke-related topics they selected at the beginning through presentations and texts; in the second part, they produce their segments. The topics of the segments are open (as long as they relate to Rilke): Students can present and reinterpret a well-known Rilke poem, explore biographical aspects, address Rilke’s themes, such as death, painting, or acrobats, or review a recent book such as Rilke and Fascism by Hans-Peter Kunisch.
